West Ministers Haggle Over Resolution

By STANFORD BRADSHAW

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — Western Hemisphere foreign ministers haggled into the early morning hours over a resolution that would denounce Communist infiltration into Latin America without pointing an accusing finger at Fidel Castro's Cuba.

The compromise move came at the ministers of the Organization of American States spill over U.S. demands that they condemn Castro's leftward march for placing the wall of hemispheric solidarity against Communism.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter ran into opposition with some nations holding out for a watered-down resolution which would merely condemn "extra-continental intervention" without naming Castro's regime, the Soviet Union or Red China.

In an effort to heal the breach, a committee of foreign ministers was named to blend the conflicting views into a compromise resolution. It consists of representatives of Colombia, Costa Rica, Panama, Honduras, Mexico, Brazil, Uruguay, El Salvador and Argentina.

Chile was reported to have rejected a compromise resolution that appeared to have majority support. It would condemn foreign intervention and reaffirm faith in the inter-American system.

There were also reports the final draft would include a Colombian proposal that a committee be formed to try to resolve Cuban-U.S. differences. It would also study Cuba's offer Thursday to negotiate with the United States.

The United States has made it plain it wants a resolution that would avoid highlighting its differences with Castro and concentrate instead on Cuba's swing to the left as a danger to the hemisphere.

Cuba's Foreign Minister Raul Roa has made a direct effort to capitalize on the sympathy existing in many Latin American nations for the Cuban revolution itself.

Roa's argument has been pegged that the revolution was and is entirely a home-bred movement. He derided U.S. charges that the Castro regime was becoming a captive of the Communists.

Roa told the conference Friday that "Cuba is not walking hand in hand with any bloc."

Diplomats See No China Russian Split

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

LONDON (AP) — Western diplomats here consider that the struggle between Nikita Khrushchev and Mao Tse-tung for the ideological leadership of the Communist world does not mean a split between the Soviet Union and Red China is imminent or even likely.

The Kremlin reportedly has put out a secret manifesto to rally support behind Khrushchev's policy of peaceful coexistence. The circular was addressed to Communist party cadres inside the Soviet Union and the party leaders outside.

A Communist diplomat in London said that Peking has issued an order preparing a parallel circular setting forth that the West cannot be trusted and that East-West war is inevitable — the dogmatic Leninist line.

The New York Herald Tribune, which first published news of the Soviet circular Thursday, said to day that Red China's counterattack, "as outlined in its press and in conversations with foreign diplomats and delegations, has concentrated on the line that the Russians were falsely misrepresenting Peking's true view of peaceful coexistence, (and) that the Russians were modern revisionists trying to distort orthodox Leninism which sanctifies 'just wars.'"

The Tribune dispatch, from the paper's Washington bureau, said while there have been "hostilities" here and there, reports show that the vast majority of Communist parties are swinging behind Moscow's assertion that the Soviet bloc should oppose the use of nuclear war as means of achieving world revolution and that this renaissance is perfectly consistent with Leninism.

Fire Guts Home, Man Perishes

SPRINGDALE, Ark. (AP) —

Jack Almerito, about 74, died early today in a fire which destroyed a garage at his farm four miles west of here.

Cause of the fire was not known. Pete Planalto, a neighbor, said he spotted the fire about 1 a. m. and saw Almerito stagger to the door of the burning building and collapse. Planalto carried Almerito outside the burning building, but the man was dead.

Sheriff Hollis Spencer said Almerito could have died from burns, a heart attack or asphyxiation. Spencer theorized that Almerito discovered the fire and went into the garage to bring out his pickup truck.

Almerito lived alone.

Speedup in Defense Urge of Kennedy

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

DETROIT, Mich. (AP) — Democratic presidential candidate John F. Kennedy today urged a beefed-up defense program "regardless of what it will cost."

The Massachusetts senator told fellow members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars: "The harsh facts of the matter are that our security and leadership are both slipping away from us—that the balance of world power is slowly shifting to the Soviet Red Chinese block—and that our own shores are for the first time since 1812 imperiled by chinks in our defensive armor."

Kennedy's forum was the VFW national convention, where Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Republican presidential candidate, appeared two days ago. Nixon told the VFW—he is a member too—that the United States stands first in the world militarily, economically, scientifically and educationally and that "we have the will and determination to maintain that position."

In his own prepared address, Kennedy challenged Nixon's words as "a series of rosy reassurances" and as a "siren call of false contentment."

Kennedy said he was proud to be a member of the VFW when he arrived here in Detroit and learned that the convention had adopted a resolution calling for increased defensive strength.

He said the resolution showed courage, conviction and "loyalty to all we hold dear."

He said he would like to give rosy reassurances, too, and to be able to say categorically and proudly that this country is first in the world militarily, economically, scientifically and educationally, and will be in the future.

"I cannot in all honesty make those claims," he said. "I cannot go to the country with appeals to the voters' complacency. My appeal is to their duty—and it is refreshing to know by your resolution that you who responded to that appeal in years past will not now heed the siren call of false contentment."

Kennedy said the next president, whoever he may be, should send to Congress next January specific requests to accelerate missile programs, expand and modernize conventional armed forces, protect our retaliatory capacity, and streamline the defense establishment.

The Democratic nominee said that the United States is planning to spend on the defense effort this year a smaller proportion of the total national product and total federal budget than at any time since the period before the Korean War.

Yet, he said, America's enemies "daily grow more arrogant, more threatening, and powerful."

95 New Cases of Paralytic Polio

states reported 95 new paralytic polio cases for last week, one less than the revised total of 96 for the preceding week.

However, the total of new cases of all kinds of polio mounted to a 1960 weekly high of 155 and a Public Health Service spokesman today expressed the opinion later information may show paralytic cases in excess of 100.

The service's weekly report said "it is probable that some unspecified cases reported in Indiana and Kentucky will be designated as paralytic at a later date."

The total of 155 for all types of polio cases listed last week compared with a previous high of 128, the revised total for the preceding week.

Despite the increases, both the polio and paralytic polio totals for last week were less than the totals of the totals in the corresponding 1959 weeks.

BIGGEST SATELLITE EVER—Forty thousand pounds of air were required to inflate this plastic balloon—taller than a 10-story building—at Cape Canaveral, Fla. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) intends to bounce signals off the balloon's aluminumized skin when it is orbiting the earth 1,000 miles high. Scientists believe a series of balloon satellites would make possible instantaneous worldwide TV and an almost unlimited number of radio-telephone channels.

Bobcat Squad Game at 8 Tonight

Coach John Pierce will match

the Red team against the White team in tonight's inter-squad tussle. The game is scheduled for 8 p. m. in Hammond Stadium.

"We will see who wants to play football tonight, and I expect to see some real knocking," said Pierce. The head coach added, "We are still looking for boys to fill our defensive positions, and there are some positions still available on the offensive unit."

Foreign Aid Too Little Says Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—President

Eisenhower told Congress today the $3,722,350,000 in its foreign aid bill is too little. He said the cuts from his requests "will jeopardize the security of the country."

In an unusual action, Eisenhower asked that Congress reject the report of Senate-House negotiators who settled on that figure in compromising differences between separate bills passed by the two branches.

Eisenhower's request was made in letters to congressional leaders.

The unusual move tossed up a block for the legislators barreling toward adjournment in the middle of next week.

The letters went to Sens. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate majority leader and Democratic vice-presidential nominee, and Everett M. Dirksen, GOP Senate leader; House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) and Rep. Charles A. Halleck (R-Ind.).

In a statement issued at the White House, Eisenhower noted that he had repeatedly stated that the full $4,006,000,000 he asked for foreign aid is vitally needed.

The cut "would sharply curtail support indispensable to the defense of allies now under intensive Soviet pressure and deny aid urgently needed by other friendly nations struggling under the gravest difficulties to make progress in freedom," he said.

Congressional leaders had been aiming for final action on the foreign aid bill today, and also on two other appropriations bills and a compromise medical care measure.

Fewer Patients at State Hospital

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The number of patients at the Arkansas State Hospital is lower now than it has been since 1951, hospital officials announced today.

A recent census at the hospital population at 4,689. A high of 5,007 was reached in 1955.

The reduction is the result of an intensive campaign to relieve overcrowding at the hospital by moving older patients to private homes.

Another factor has been faster treatment and a higher rate of discharge of cured patients.

The decrease has been accomplished despite a gradually increased annual rate of admission.

New Classification for 4-F Draftees

WASHINGTON (AP) — Draft

boards have been instructed to quit classifying as 4-F men who may qualify for service in an emergency although they are not accepted under current standards.

A new classification is being set up for such registrants.

La. Gov. Louis B. Hershey, Secretary of Defense, announced the change Thursday and said it should improve the manpower inventory.

Man Trapped 2 Days Under a Tractor

HUNTSVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Attendants at a hospital told today how a farmer lay trapped beneath an overturned tractor for more than two days before his cries for help were heard.

The right arm of William Yingst, 63, was mangled in the accident. It had to be amputated above the elbow.

A hospital spokesman said Yingst, who lives alone on his farm near Huntsville, was plowing a field when his tractor turned over at 10:30 a. m. Monday. He was pinned under it.

Yingst told attendants he screamed for help at intervals until a passerby found him at 3 p. m. Wednesday afternoon, 52 1/2 hours after the accident.

He was taken to the Madison County Hospital, and the emergency amputation was performed.

Yingst's physician said he was expected to recover.

The farmer told attendants he was conscious throughout most of the ordeal. His farm is in a remote area of Madison County, the home county of Gov. Orval Faubus.

Sheriff Noah Lestrom said he was investigating the case.

Picket Line Is Integrated

picket line protesting segregated restaurants in downtown Oklahoma City was integrated Thursday by white teen-agers and a Christian Church minister.

The pickets are spearheading a boycott of most downtown businesses here by Negroes attempting break down race barriers in eating places.

The Rev. Marvin Layman and seven white teen-agers joined Negroes on picket duty. The Rev. Mr. Layman, pastor of the suburban Del City Christian Church, said the group decided on the action in response to letters from Rev. J. Howard Edmondson's Committee on Human Relations.

The letter urged action to support Negroes in their fight to end segregation in eating places.

Meanwhile J. J. Boxberger, executive secretary of the Oklahoma City Retail Merchants Association, said business continued "pretty good" down on the fourth day of the boycott.

Herter Says Cuba in Grip of Commies

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP)—

U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said today Cuba is in the tightening grip of communism and proposed that the Organization of American States probe Cuban charges of U.S. aggression.

Herter recommended creation of a fact-finding OAS committee "for the purpose of making on-the-ground investigations in the United States and Cuba" of the aggression charges.

Herter, in an 18-page reply to earlier attacks by Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa, said Roa had not replied directly to any question the United States had previously advanced regarding Communist penetration of the island republic.

The OAS had split over U.S. demands that it pinpoint Cuba in a condemnation of Communist infiltration into the Western Hemisphere.

Plane Rocked by Wind, 4 Are Injured

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Four

persons aboard a Trans World Airlines constellation were injured Thursday night when the plane was rocked by turbulence over Kansas.

The pilot brought the ship, carrying 48 passengers and five crew members, to an unscheduled landing here and the injured were taken to St. John's Hospital.

The San Francisco-to-New York flight passed up a scheduled stop in Wichita, Kan., but ran into reported turbulence near Chicago shortly after 10 p. m. It landed here at 10:44 p. m.

Most seriously injured was Mrs. Myrtle Smith, Phoenix, Ariz., who suffered a fractured hand and a back injury. Two other passengers, Mrs. Mary A. Mellor, Wichita, and Miss Jewel O'Connor, Amarillo, Tex., had only bruises and were to be released from the hospital today.

A stewardess, Miss B. Braswell, Los Angeles, received a fractured ankle.

Fourteen Wichita passengers stayed here overnight. The other passengers and Miss Braswell left at 3:40 a. m. for Kansas City.

Segregation at Counters End

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Lunch

counter segregation in eight major retail stores ended Thursday in a move that took Negroes and whites by surprise.

Houston newspapers, radio and television stations were advised of the plan a week ago but did not disclose it in advance. Spokesmen said they did not plan to carry stories about its being carried out.

Merchants and Negro officials agreed that chances for incidents would be minimized if the plan took effect without advance publicity.

There were no disturbances at the lunch counters although one waiter said, "Boy, I sure was a little nervous."

Judges Refuse To Halt Texas Intergration

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Federal

Judge Freida refused to halt integration of Houston, Tex., public schools and took under advisement motions to nullify Louisiana's school segregation laws.

In separate proceedings, the Houston action was without incident, but in the Louisiana case, the state's attorney general, Jack P. Greinillion, stormed out of the courtroom after referring to the federal tribunal as "a den of iniquity."

Here are the three cases handled:

1. The Houston school board asked the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals here to hold up integration of Houston schools until the court could rule on the school board's appeal. U.S. District Judge Ben Connally had ordered integration there in the first grade when school starts Sept. 7. He also ordered Houston to proceed with integration at a grade a year. Chief Judge Richard T. Rives and Judge John Minor Wisdom of the Appellate Court here refused to hold Connally's ruling in abeyance until the Appellate court could rule the case itself.

2. In New Orleans, the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People sought to restrain Louisiana Gov. Jimmie Davis from interfering with the operation of the public schools of New Orleans. Davis has seized the schools from the school board and announced they would open Sept. 7 on a segregated basis.

This plea was taken under advisement by Wright, Rives and U.S. District Court Judge Herbert W. Christenberry. Wright and Christenberry are natives of New Orleans; Rives, of Montgomery, Ala.

3. The same judges are studying another motion in which 31 white parents of New Orleans asked that Davis be restrained from preventing the New Orleans school board from complying with federal orders for integration.

Spa Springs Are Getting a Bit Hotter

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Hot

Spring's famous springs are getting hotter and a University of Arkansas research chemist plans to find out why.

The chemist, Dr. Paul Kuruda, today released results of some tests he ran on two sample springs in 1952 and last week.

Kuruda said the temperature in the No. 1 display spring on bathhouse row was 135 degrees in 1952 and 134.9 degrees last week. The No. 2 spring was 126 degrees eight years ago and 121 this year.

The first recorded temperatures of the two springs, taken in 1899, read 116 for No. 1 and 114 for No. 2, Kuruda said.

The scientist speculated that the temperature of the springs had been increasing steadily at a rate of three degrees each eight years since 1900.

Two possible explanations for the temperature rise were offered by Kuruda, who plans to conduct more extensive tests later this year. They were:

1. Greater radioactive reactions in the deep-seated rocks which heat the springs.

2. Natural alteration in the underground crevasses through which the springs flow, causing a mixing of waters.

There is no danger the springs will become too hot for use in the bathhouses here. The water has to be cooled before it is pumped into baths.

Kuruda added that his references to radioactivity need cause no alarm. He said the degree of radioactivity in the spring waters is considerably below the level considered dangerous to humans.

Kuruda's studies are being carried out in cooperation with the National Parks Service which owns the springs.

Solons Drive For Passage On SS Bill

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders drove for final passage today of a compromise Social Security bill providing increased federal grants to the states to help the needy aged pay for medical care.

Once it is sent to President Eisenhower for his approval, the principal barriers to adjournment of Congress next week will have been cleared away except for a Senate-House deadlock over minimum wage legislation.

The House passed the Social Security measure Friday before recessing until Monday.

But the Senate was called into Saturday session not only to complete action on that bill, but also to pass on a disputed resolution expressing disapproval of presidential appointments to the Supreme Court while Congress is not in session.

Republicans have protested that the resolution could be taken as a reflection on President Eisenhower, who gave Chief Justice Earl Warren and two other Supreme Court justices recess appointments.

Chief feature of the Social Security bill is the provision for 200 million dollars a year in federal grants to help finance a limited medical care plan for elderly persons unable to meet their expenses.

Major liberalizing changes in the Social Security system contained in the original Senate bill were eliminated or watered down by a Senate-House conference committee, leaving only some minor revisions for the most part.

Objections voiced by senators disappointed with the compromise showed progress of the bill in the Senate where leaders had hoped to whip it through Friday night.

Earlier, however, the Senate had followed the lead of the House in passing a compromise $3,722,350,000 foreign aid appropriation bill despite a last-minute protest by Eisenhower that it was inadequate for the nation's security.

The vote in the Senate was 67-24, with 5 Republicans joining 52 Democrats in voting for passage. Five Democrats and 49 Republicans voted against passage. The House passed the bill without a roll call vote.

The three appropriations bills, two of them compromises and one an original measure, finance the foreign aid program, the government's vast public works programs, and some miscellaneous agencies.

The foreign aid measure would appropriate $4,722,350,000. It includes a ban against aid to countries that help Fidel Castro's Cuba or the Dominican Republic, unless the President finds that such a ban would damage this country's interests. The money total is $335,000 less than the President wanted.

The foreign aid bill, along with the compromise public works measure, was expected to encounter little trouble in either branch.

The new money bill, appropriating less than 100 million dollars for assorted agencies, was so non-controversial that the House gave unanimous consent for its expedited consideration.

They are the last appropriation bills of the present session.

The minimum wage bill was in more difficulty. Senate and House conferees scheduled meetings today and again Monday in an effort to reach a common ground on separate measures passed by the two branches.

Indications were they would eventually come up with a measure closer to the House bill than to the Senate plan, which had the backing of Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, the Democratic presidential nominee, and his running mate, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas.

The House bill would raise minimum wages for covered workers from $1 to $1.15 an hour and extend coverage to about a million more workers. The Senate voted a $1.25 ceiling with coverage for an added four million employees.

Congress Is Dominated by Conservatives

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two things stand out after watching Congress in the past few weeks. 1. It is dominated by the conservatives of both parties. 2. Sens. John P. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson have been about as comfortable as a pair of polar bears in a Turkish bath.

Since the Democrats outnumber the Republicans overwhelmingly in both House and Senate, Kennedy and Johnson might have expected the climate to be more agreeable. And it would have been too, if some of their own conservative Democrats, mostly Southerners, hadn't turned the heat on them by trotting along with the Republicans.

There's no reason to believe the conservatives still won't prevail next year, no matter who wins the November elections. The results of this Congress, now hurrying toward a close, tell the story. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential candidate, and his vice-presidential running mate, Johnson, came back here with the whole country watching to see how much they could make good on the Democratic campaign platform promises. They were rebuffed again and again.

Meanwhile, Kennedy's opposite number on the Republican ticket, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, had the luxury of being able to keep his mouth shut and just watch without getting too much mixed up publicly in what happened. There was a good reason for this.

As vice president he can't take part in the debate. All he can do is preside over the Senate and vote only to break a tie vote on the floor.

Take housing. The Democratic platform promised a program of two million homes a year. Before Congress recessed for the conventions last July, the Senate had passed a $1,200,000,000 housing bill.

But the House Rules Committee — dominated by conservative Democrats and Republicans — still hasn't let a bill get through so the whole House can vote on it. The result: Almost certainly no housing bill this year.

Take the medical care bill. The Democratic platform promised — as part of the Social Security system — to provide medical care for the aged.

Before the conventions, the House passed a minimum kind of medical care bill providing mostly for poverty-stricken older people. When Congress returned Kennedy and Johnson fought to have the Senate make good on the Democratic platform promise. They lost because 19 Southern Democrats joined the Republicans in turning them down. The Democrats had already voted solidly to reject a Republican plan offering

Ruling Soon on Louisiana School Case

By DAVID ZIMMAN

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — A three-judge federal court hears arguments today in two New Orleans suits that seek to explode the state's new arsenal of school segregation laws.

Chief Judge Richard T. Rives of the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals, who will preside, said the special tribunal would rule "as promptly as possible to avoid any confusion about the opening of schools Sept. 7."

First-grade classes in this city of 620,000 have been ordered integrated this fall.

Despite the federal order, Gov. Jimmie Davis has pledged to keep them segregated. Davis, acting under the new segregation laws, seized control of New Orleans schools last week.

Rives, along with U.S. District Court Judges J. Skelly Wright and Herbert W. Christenberry, will hear suits seeking injunctions to prevent Louisiana from enforcing its school segregation laws.

Attorneys for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, led by Chief Counsel Thurgood Marshall, and 31 white parents of school children are asking the court to:

1. Restrain Davis from preventing the New Orleans School Board from complying with integration plans.

2. Dissolve a state court injunction stopping the School Board from reclassifying schools from their present segregated status.

3. Prevent enforcement of 18 state school segregation laws.

The court is hearing the actions together because each presents a different kind of broader benefits. The Senate then passed a minimum kind of bill, to avoid a compromise of the two limited versions was ready for passage today.

Take education. The Democratic platform promised federal aid for salaries. Before the convention for school construction and teaching both houses had acted on a federal aid to education bill.

The Senate passed one providing $1,000,000,000 over two years for school construction and teachers' salaries. The House passed bill authorized $1,300,000,000 over four years but only for construction.

Again the House Rules Committee comes into the picture. Because the two bills differed, representatives of both houses would have to confer and compromise on a single bill. The Rules Committee has blocked such a conference.

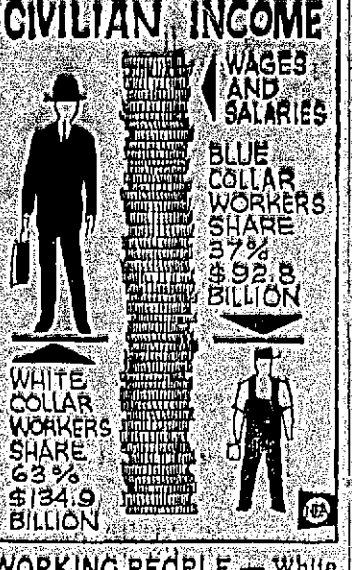

The result: Almost certainly no federal aid-to-education bill this year.

Take the minimum wage issue. The Democratic platform called for raising the minimum wage — which covers people engaged in interstate commerce — from its present $1 level to $1.25.

Before the conventions the House passed a bill raising the minimum wage to only $1.15, which is about the most President Eisenhower would go for. The Senate came back and, under the leadership of Kennedy and Johnson, passed one fulfilling the platform promise: It would raise the minimum wage to $1.25.

The Rules Committee bottled this up a bit but now is permitting House and Senate to reach a compromise. The result, will probably be a minimum wage of $1.15.

If anyone can be called a winner at this session it's Eisenhower, who wanted much less far-reaching legislation than either the Democratic platform promised or Kennedy and Johnson sought.

WORKING PEOPLE

White collar workers have become the dominant branch of American wage earners, statistics show. They now earn 63 per cent of all wages and salaries paid to civilians. Their income jumped 60 per cent during the 1950s. Blue collar workers' share dropped from 40.9 to 37 per cent. This was due entirely to decline in the number of workers, as blue collar wages actually increased some 20 per cent. Data from the Institute of Life Insurance.

Better Relations

TOKYO (AP) — Nobel Prize-winning author Pearl Buck said today the barriers between Communist China and the United States may be broken down in the next five years.

"It is to their interest and to ours," said the American author of "The Good Earth," who spent more than 40 of her 68 years in China. "Human nature has a way of overcoming ideologies in favor of more practical ways of living."

Living Cost Sets a New July Record

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs rose one-tenth of one per cent in July to set a record for the fifth straight month.

The Labor Department living cost index rose to 126.6 per cent of the 1947-49 base.

The July increase, while it raised the figure to a new record, was the smallest since July 1954.

Increases for food and gasoline, and a continued increase in prices for services, were main contributors to the new record.

But food prices rose less than they usually do in July.

Prices for automobiles, appliances and furniture continued to decline.

The price rises during the past three months were insufficient to warrant a wage boost for nearly one million workers whose wage contracts required a quarterly living cost adjustment based on today's government index.

Of about 1,600,000 workers whose wages are subject to adjustment, only some 180,000 will get a raise of about one cent an hour.

Youths Have Day at Fair in Missouri

SEDALIA, Mo. (AP) — Teen-agers and just plain kids have their day at the Missouri Fair today and it's hoped they'll give a boost to sagging attendance at the big show.

Thursday's program, officially "Kansas City and Sedalia Day," attracted only 71,917 customers. This was well under the record attendance of 95,633 for the day set last year.

The six day dray this year also is under that of last year—356,177 compared to 372,631.

A highlight Thursday was the installing of Paul Christman, University of Missouri football great of the late 30s, into the Missouri Sports Hall of Fame.

Christman, a native of Webster Groves, Mo., now living in Chicago, passed Missouri to the 1939 Big Eight championship and later the Chicago Cardinals to the National Professional League crown.

Introduced at the ceremonies were Don Faurot, Missouri athletic director who coached Christman and George Goldman of Kansas City. Both are members of the Hall of Fame.

The Grand Circuit harness racing program closed with Bullet Dock's Pride, owned by Oscar Dock's, for the mile in the Matron Stakes for 3-year-old trotters.

Dock's Pride, owned by Oscar McWilliams of Laquey, Mo., was chosen grand champion gelding in the Appaloosa horse show, a new class added this year. By Buddy Brown, owned by Big River Stables of Montrose, Iowa, was the reserve grand champion gelding.

Grand champion and reserve grand champion mare honorees went to Jessie Joke and Tick Tock of the Flying Stables at Sarcoxie, Mo. Little Man of Bryant's Appaloosa Farm, Chatham, Ill., was the grand champion stallion, with reserve honors going to No. Star II, owned by Guy Holland of Hutchinson, Kan.

She Seeks Love Lost After Tragedy Hit Her

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: Not long ago my two brothers were killed in an accident. My steady, who was also in the car, died shortly afterward.

Recently I met a wonderful guy. I guess I was looking for the love I lost when my brothers and steady died. We dated. I fell for the guy in a big way. Now he has broken with me. I am 16, and he is 19. He says we can still be friends but I know he isn't mine any more and it hurts. How can I get him back and how can I find the love I want and need so much? —Love Lost

Dear Love Lost: I firmly believe that our needs are met as they arise. Somewhere, somehow, is the right boy for you. This one evidently was not. Let him go. He's gone anyway and all the effort in the world won't get him back. Keep on being your sweet, natural self and the one you're looking for will find you.

Dear Helen: I am a girl of 14. My mother and I used to get along relatively well. Now it is different. If I do something wrong she says I am stupid and will never learn. If my sisters and I make mistakes at the dinner table she imitates us instead of telling us what we have done that is wrong. I am quite emotional and every once in a while break down when she blows up. Then she calls me cry-baby. I try not to cry but she actually frightens me into it. I realize that this is the most difficult time of my life and that I should try to understand her, but when I do she gets mad again. Please help me. I love my mother and would like to have my love returned—at least in a way I can see. —Unhappy Daughter

Dear Unhappy Daughter: Your mother is behaving like a child herself if she acts as you describe. Being a parent is an art which too few practice. Parents for the most part are born, not made. Take this particular situation as a challenge to you. Have the courage to talk to your mother as you have written me. Give her your love. Try to reach her heart. It will do you both good and I hope, bring her closer to you.

Dear Helen: I have dated six months but not steadily, and am very confused about a respectful, wonderful and maturing girl. We have enjoyed formal and informal dances, swimming at the beach, serious discussions on many things, drives, a number of double dates and just the sense that the other was near mentally and physically. This girl has brought me to a new, inspiring outlook on life. She helped me to quit drinking and swearing. She got me to attend church and I thank her dearly.

Suddenly, while on a double date, she said she would rather not see me for two months. I accepted her decision, sincerely asked her to have fun and to believe that this decision was best for me as well as her. But for me, my world of happiness has collapsed.

She deserves the very best and has a rare beauty that is irreplaceable except by the equally rare beauty of sincerity, appreciation and common sense—all of which are hers. Please send me your leaflet, "The Way to a Girl's Heart." —J.R.H.

Dear J.R.H.: The leaflet goes to you today but I believe this letter which you have written me is the way to her heart. Show it to her. I hope she's worthy of you!

TWO MINUTE MYSTERY

THE RAILROAD DEATH

By DONALD J. SABEL

"What time will we arrive in San Francisco?" asked Dr. Haldeman as the conductor passed his seat in the Pullman.

"In exactly one hour—at twenty minutes after three," was the reply. "First trip to California!"

"No, but my trainmate to the north-ern part of the state."

"Well, you'll like Frisco," said the conductor, smiling. "Great town. Been living there myself for 32—"

Just then a blond young man charged down the aisle, shouting, "In compartment 61 a dead man!"

With the blond leading, the conductor and Haldeman rushed to the car. Immediately behind them, a white-haired man was slumped in the seat of compartment 61. A barber's scissors had been driven into his heart.

"It's Harry Winslow, the New York Jeweler," said Haldeman. "He was a bit of a showman—sometimes carried a million dollars in jewels on his person and made no secret of it."

"Looks like you've hit the motive," said the conductor, stooping. He picked up an empty jewel case.

Then he turned sharply on the young man. "Who are you and what were you doing in this compartment?"

"My name is Clarence Sweeney. My compartment is right next door, Number 5," the young man said. "I met Mr. Winslow in the dining car and he invited me in for a drink before we arrived in San Francisco. This is what I found when I entered."

"Winslow obviously had no left hand," said Haldeman, "and no right hand either."

Just then a blond young man charged down the aisle, shouting, "In compartment 61 a dead man!"

"Probably they sat together dining before the scissors were used."

"Then, with a deft judo hold, he rendered powerless the man he suspected of the crime."

Says Nixon Has Chance in South

By EDMOND LEE BRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon launches a second campaign in the South today, with an expressed view that "we have a chance in some Southern states."

On the eve of a one-day sweep to talk in Birmingham, Ala., and Atlanta, Ga., Nixon said, "At least we are going to give the people down there a choice, something they sometimes have not had in previous times."

This was one of the campaign observations the Republican presidential candidate made during a sometimes serious, usually breezy appearance Thursday night on Jack Paar's show on NBC-TV.

Nixon took in stride a question based on President Eisenhower's remark that while Nixon is a principal adviser "no one can make a decision except me."

Some took this as a blow at Nixon's major contention that his executive participation in the top levels of the Eisenhower administration entitles him to promotion to the presidency.

Nixon said that "the President stated the case exactly and for a really 'for his administration' and, properly, my administration."

But Nixon added he has had no "very great privilege" of being asked for his opinion and "participating in the discussions which lead to a decision by the President." His experience, he said, included sitting "in the councils of the administration on the Gulf of Mexico and the Security Council."

Challenged to Get Out Vote

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—This city has challenged the nation's other Springfield to a get-out-the-vote contest in November's general election.

The mayor pro-tem of Springfield, Mo., Stanley F. Roush, sent telegrams Thursday to officials of the other 21 Springfields inviting them to participate in a contest to see which one can score the biggest gain in total voting, compared with the general election in 1956.

Springfield, Mo., will award a plaque to the winner, Roush said. There is a Springfield in Conway County, Ark.

When to Fish or Hunt Solunar Tables

By John Alden Knight

The schedule of Solunar periods, as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

The Major periods are shown in bold face type. These begin at the time shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours there after. The minor periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

Red Athletes Getting Too, Too Friendly

By EDDY GILMORE

ROME (AP)—The Russians today advanced their get-friendly campaign to the point of Olympic hand-holding and public cuddling.

It was right down on the athletic field, too.

Blonde Tasia Tschetschik and brunette Vera Ozolina advanced on U.S. high jumper John Thomas, world record holder from Boston University.

"Come," said Tasia in English, "and pose with us."

Thomas—who'd just finished jumping 6 feet 10 inches—seven practice tries—willingly agreed.

"Now," said Tasia, slipping her arm around Thomas' waist, "put your arms around us."

Cameras snapped away as the two Soviet girls smiled up at Thomas who seemed visibly impressed with the friendly embraces.

While this was going on down at one of an Olympic athletic field, Russian and American men were getting together at the other end.

This time it was the Soviet Union's decathlon athlete, Vasily Kuznetsov, who made the advance.

"I'd like a picture with you," he told America's Rafer Johnson.

"Sure," replied Johnson, "but I'd like to include a friend."

Johnson, a Negro, beckoned to C.K. Yang, who represents Chang Kai-shek's Nationalist China.

For a moment Kuznetsov hesitated because Russia's relations with Nationalist China are colder than frigid.

"Oh, come on," urged Johnson. "O.K.," said Kuznetsov, "but I don't know you," he added with a mock frown at Yang.

Asked what was behind the sudden friendship campaign, Art Lentz, assistant executive director of the U.S. Olympic Committee, said: "I really don't know. This is an idea of getting together and practicing together was their idea. And they surely are pushing it."

Won't Let a Sapling Make Him a Sap

By PATRICK MCNULTY

LOS ANGELES (AP)—I thought that I would never see that many buys just for one tree.

A treelet planted to replace. One they claim I did deface. A tree worth but a buck or two To plant needs not a 10-man crew.

So if they want a C from me They'll have to plant a bigger tree.

That, poetically paraphrasing rubbish collector Tony Augustyn, is the way he feels today about a 100-ft. bill he got from the county for replacement of a tree damaged by one of his trash trucks.

He's not going to let a sapling make a sap of him, says Tony. And county tree trimmers aren't going to trim him.

In short, he's not paying. The county replaced the damaged 18-foot eucalyptus with a sapling pepper tree. Tony got the bill.

"To cover cost of removal and replacement of parkway tree knocked down at 5445 W. 118th St.," it read.

"I schinus Terebinthifolia, $2.59; 1 redwood stake, 55 cents; 1 tree trimmer foreman, 1 hour, $5.34; 1 tree trimmer subforeman, 3 hours, $14.39; 3 tree trimmers, 7 hours, $30.20; 3 tree laborers, 8 hours, $29.47; 1 truck driver, 1 hour, $4.08; 1 truck driver, 3 hours, $12.63; 1 truck M-177, 14 miles, $2.62; 1 relief truck, M-1877, 6 miles, 64 cents; 1 car, 5 miles, 70 cents; dump fee, $4.43.

"Total, $108.64."

Tony, owner of the T and R Disposal Co., said one of his trucks hit the branch while driving near the curb.

"But that's no reason for the vance."

"I'd like a picture with you," he told America's Rafer Johnson.

"Sure," replied Johnson, "but I'd like to include a friend."

Johnson, a Negro, beckoned to C.K. Yang, who represents Chang Kai-shek's Nationalist China.

For a moment Kuznetsov hesitated because Russia's relations with Nationalist China are colder than frigid.

"Oh, come on," urged Johnson. "O.K.," said Kuznetsov, "but I don't know you," he added with a mock frown at Yang.

Asked what was behind the sudden friendship campaign, Art Lentz, assistant executive director of the U.S. Olympic Committee, said: "I really don't know. This is an idea of getting together and practicing together was their idea. And they surely are pushing it."

THE WOLF THAT RODE

By NELSON NYE

THE STORY: Brett Fasken, realizing Trone is the victim of a rustling frame, decides that the only way to counteract it is to report it immediately to the sheriff. Brett realizes that his own sister is behind this move to outlaw the Trones.

CHAPTER XVIII

Lola was gone when Brett came out with the rifle, the dust of her passage settling back over the ridge. Brett got into the saddle and reined the roan toward the hills that hid this part of Fasken range, when presently—for no sure reason—he glanced around, he found Trone watching from the open door.

He crossed the little hills. The sun dropped lower. The air was twisted and wriggly with heat, distorting whatever a man tried to look at, and smoky with haze where, in the deeper distances, the sky came down to brush baked earth.

The grass under foot in this light was gray. Seared and tough it gave off curls of dust in some places so brittle the mere touch broke it, reducing it to chaff. Riding west across boundaries, he shouldn't be much over a four hour trip. Plenty of time to see most of the things Brett would rather not look at—time enough to drive a man crazy, feeling the jaws of this thing closing in on him.

Just past dark he picked out the lights of Hobbled O, golden slashes in the blue-black immensity of unfathomable space. His father's ranch.

No. Jo Fasken's ranch. He remembered the look of her the night he'd walked out with the money she'd flung at him, fluttering about the harsh strike of his boots. She would never forgive him. No chance to start over—not for Brett Fasken, committed to keeping Trone's place out of her hands. And this on top of what he'd done to Clint Wilder.

She was like some great octopus, strangling this range, caring for nothing but power.

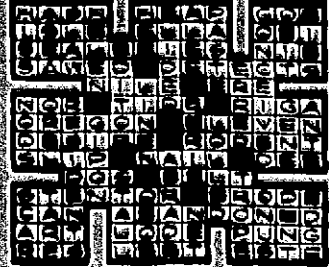

The bunkhouse was dark. Two lamps still showed when Brett rode into the yard, both in the house. One of these, the farthest, behind a drawn shade, was in Brett's old room; the nearer was in what they'd always used for an office. Light from this ranged out across the dust, revealing the day pen open and empty.

So the crew was gone. I've been a fool, Brett thought, to come here without a gun.

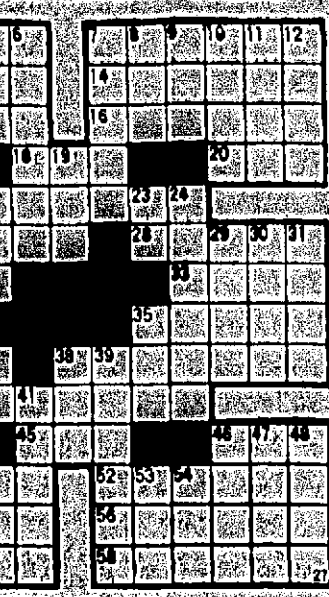

No, this wasn't the time for that sort of thing. He'd been right. Trone's rifle was on the horse—he hadn't even thought to find it was loaded! No matter. You didn't go into a Daily we drag about us every physical comfort of this age. Even our architecture reflects comfort. Yet, how many of us indulge in the Supreme Comfort... the comfort of religion? Folded hands reflect a soul in fellowship with the Almighty. See what aids he has summoned in his hour of need! When your nerves are worn from daily routine, when crisis tear at your soul, when tragedy overwhelms you... do you ever stop to experience the Comfort of Divine Presence? Compare the harried, cross, impatient faces you meet on the street with the crowd you see going to church each Sunday... that should be enough. The strain of modern life is too much. Psychiatrists are stampeded and mental institutions are overflowing. Our nerves simply can't take it. Why not try this man's remedy? Light a candle, open The Book, fold your hands and get in company with noble souls.

YOU IN THE CHURCH THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. You in the Church and the Church in you form a combination for good, for a regular CHURCH, GOD and a daily BIBLE READER.

The Churches of This Community, Are the Only Institutions Which Have as Their Main Function, the Transforming of Human Lives
They Are the Sign Boards Pointing the Way to God.

Sponsors of these messages urge faithful church support. Through this series of pages the appeal is for all men to stand up and be counted . . . to combat
Communism on all fronts . . . to be faithful to God.

Our Ministers Are God's Servants Who Call the Signals Against the Organized Forces of Evil. They Invite You to Enlist On the Side For God. . . to Come to Church.
